OCAP Speaking Series

April 19 - Beyond #MeToo: Ending Violence Against Poor Women
Speakers: Anna Willats & Azeezah Kanji

Does the #MeToo movement address concerns of poor women, including those who are Indigenous and racialized? Is its scope limited to exposing violence perpetrated by famous men and experienced by rich women? What lessons can be learned from past struggles?

The Speakers Series is where we discuss issues critical to the success of poor people's resistance.

#FightToWin

6pm
3rd Thursday of every month
40 Oak Street

Free Event with:
Meal
Childcare
Wheelchair Access

What Is OCAP?

OCAP is an organization that fights for the rights of poor people. We have been organizing in Toronto and Ontario since 1990. We bring the poor, unemployed, migrant, disabled and homeless people together to defend each other and organize to fight back against the powers that attack us. Landlords, bosses, the police, corporations and the government institutions that serve them, all have a stake in attacking people living in poverty and keeping us poor. We respond to these attacks through disruption and building public pressure. We don't simply register our dissent. We fight with dignity and strength and we fight to win.

Getting Hassled?

Call us if you are being hassled by your boss, landlord, cops, park authorities, or need help with welfare (OW) and disability (ODSP). We do 'case-work' in the day-to-day through our office, meaning that we use protest to support people and work with them to get benefits they are entitled to and to stop harassment.

Fight Back - Join Us

We are living today in the age of cut-backs and austerity and the need for an organized resistance by poor people and our allies is greater than ever. We invite you to get involved in the fight and join us.
